19th Annual Middle East Photography Exhibit, 2009-2010

Footsteps of Water

For the past eighteen years the UA Center for Middle Eastern Studies (CMES) has organized and hosted an annual photography exhibit featuring images from the Middle East taken by CMES friends, faculty, students, and colleagues. Selected photos are enlarged, mounted, and displayed in the Center and remain on display throughout the academic year. With the photographer's permission, images may also be published on our website and selected for CMES advertising and promotional purposes. The exhibit will open on Monday, September 7, 2009, with a reception on Thursday, September 24.

PHOTO SUBMISSION

We seek images that embody the significance of water in the Middle East. As a natural resource, it is scarce; in culture and rituals, it is fundamental; and in politics, it can be divisive. Water is also a source of beauty and, in fountains and by the seaside, of calming sounds. We welcome photos from celebrations, landscapes, architecture. . . use your imagination! Pairs of photos are welcome. We hope that submissions will reflect the many natural, cultural, and historical dimensions of the footsteps of water in the Middle East.
